Introduction

The University of Minnesota is physically one of the largest institutions of higher education in the nation with nearly 20 million gross square feet of space. Over $600 million has been invested in University buildings and improvements. The annual cost to heat, light and maintain these facilities is approaching $40 million. In economic terms, the need for effective and efficient use of University space is a primary concern. In academic terms, appropriate physical facilities of sufficient quality and quantity must be provided to accommodate the diverse and dynamic nature of University programs.

To insure the efficient use of University facilities, space utilization is monitored and evaluated on a continual basis. A primary tool of space management is the University of Minnesota Facilities Inventory System. This space inventory is a room by room listing of how much space currently exists, and how and by whom space is being used. See example on page 7. In addition, an Instructional Space Utilization Report is prepared each fall detailing the level of usage of classrooms and instructional laboratories. An example of the type of information contained in this report is on page 8.

The following report addresses space utilization in all instructional rooms (i.e. classrooms and laboratories) and offices on the Minneapolis Campus. University units were surveyed using the Facilities Inventory as the source document. Units were requested to identify departmental usage of their assigned instructional spaces and the name and rank of each office occupant. Centrally scheduled instructional space utilization data was obtained from the Scheduling Office using the Fall Quarter 1980 Instructional Space Utilization Report as the source document.

Classrooms, instructional laboratories and offices constitute a major portion -- almost 40% -- of all campus space. A breakdown of all nonresidential space on the Minneapolis Campus is displayed on the following page.

The excellent cooperation received from University departments in preparing this report is indicative of an increasing awareness of the importance of responsible space utilization.

SPACE USE BY ROOM USE
MINNEAPOLIS CAMPUS
FALL QUARTER 1980

TOTAL ASSIGNABLE SQUARE FEET: 6,897,287
EXCLUDES RESIDENTIAL SPACE

Summary of Findings

1. Instructional space and offices represent almost 40% of campus space.

General Use Classrooms

2. Centrally scheduled classrooms are used to optimum - 30.7 hours per week.
3. Scheduling of classrooms is well distributed, with utilization exceeding University standards from 9:00 AM through 3:00 PM.
4. Non-course related scheduling activity adds another 2.0 average hours per week of use to each classroom.
5. The distribution of room sizes to serve the class sections could be improved. Most pressing need is large size 50-70 seat classrooms.
6. Since 1974, 31 general use classrooms have been reassigned to departments or converted to other use.

Departmental Classrooms

7. Classrooms assigned to departments are less heavily scheduled than centrally scheduled rooms - less than 22 hours per week.
8. One reason for lower utilization is the general poor quality of rooms.
9. Since 1974 the number of departmental classrooms has increased from 69 to 127 rooms.

Instructional Class Laboratories

10. Instructional lab utilization exceeds standards - 26.6 hours per week.
11. Low seat utilization rate (66%) in labs indicates many laboratories are oversized relative to class sections accommodated.

Special Purpose Laboratories

12. Special purpose labs are least intensively used of any instructional space.
13. Primary reason for low utilization is intensive use for limited periods of academic quarter, virtually no use registered at other times.

Individual Study Laboratories

14. Individual study labs are well used particularly in the College of Liberal Arts (primarily Music studios) and the Institute of Technology.

Faculty Offices

15. Faculty offices average 153 NASF exceeding minimum standard of 120 NASF.
16. If the larger average office size is not taken into account, applying standard to existing offices would erroneously indicate a surplus of 76,910 NASF of faculty office space.
17. Approximately 12% of faculty offices are shared. Lower percentage is shared in professional schools and higher percentage in Liberal Arts and Social Sciences.
18. When shared offices are taken into account, actual average area available to a faculty office occupant is reduced to 134 NASF.

Staff Offices

19. Higher percentage (25%) of staff offices is shared than faculty offices.
20. Virtually same office area is available to staff members as to faculty members - 134 NASF.

Secretary/Clerical Offices

21. At 126 NASF per occupant, secretary/clerical offices are more intensively used than either faculty or staff offices.
22. Primary reason for good utilization is large shared offices. Walls in faculty and staff offices often limit both flexibility and higher utilization.

Graduate Assistant Offices

23. These offices are predominantly large and shared resulting in less than 66 NASF per student which is consistent with University standards.

Office Service/Conference Rooms

24. As expected proportionately more office service and conference rooms are found in administrative units.
25. Campus-wide, 18% of office space is in this category falling short of University guideline of 20%.

Unoccupied Offices

26. Survey indicated 84 vacant offices in 33 buildings totaling 11,190 NASF.
27. Major problem is redeploying widely dispersed pockets of vacant space to expanding programs without massive and costly relocations.

Costing Office Space

28. On a campus-wide average, each existing faculty office represents an investment of $6,478.
29. Currently each new faculty office constructed is estimated to cost $18,207.

30. The annual cost to heat, light and maintain an average faculty office is $543.

Summary

31. The level of campus-wide space utilization falls within an acceptable range. However, there is a wide diversity in terms of both appropriate quantity and quality of space available between departments within schools and colleges and between schools and colleges within the University.

INSTRUCTIONAL
SPACE

Instructional Space

Instructional space represents approximately 13 percent of all Minneapolis Campus space and is categorized as follows:

General Use Classroom - A centrally scheduled room for academic classes not requiring special equipment for student use. A lecture hall, lecture-demonstration room, seminar room or other general purpose classroom.

Departmental Classroom - A room for scheduled classes not requiring special equipment for student use. A lecture room or lecture-demonstration room.

Class Laboratory - A room used primarily by regularly scheduled classes requiring special-purpose equipment for student participation, experimentation, observation or practice in a discipline.

Special Purpose Laboratory - A room used primarily by informally (or irregularly) scheduled classes requiring special-purpose equipment for student use.

Individual Study Laboratory - A room used primarily for individual student experimentation, observation or practice. Includes rooms where students may be assigned carrels or desks for study but does not include general purpose study space.

The relative amount of space in each of the above categories is displayed on the following page.

INSTRUCTIONAL SPACE BY USE

TOTAL ASSIGNABLE SQUARE FEET: 896,249

The following table indicates the level of utilization by the various room uses for Fall Quarter 1980.

Instructional Lab	251	11.5	15.1	26.6
Special Purpose Lab	201	3.1	17.7	20.8

The above table reflects only daytime scheduling between 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM Monday through Friday. University scheduling standards are 30 hours per week for classrooms and 20 hours per week for instructional laboratories. Both centrally scheduled classrooms and laboratories exceed their respective guidelines.

Individual study laboratories are not included in the table since not all of these rooms are scheduled. In some cases these rooms are assigned to individual students over the course of the quarter such as an Architecture studio.

General Use Classrooms

As previously stated classrooms which are centrally scheduled are used on the average of 32.7 hours per week. The table on the following page indicates the level of use by various room sizes for regular instruction only.

The last column indicates the Station Utilization rate or the proportion of seats which are occupied when classes are in session. The University classroom scheduling standard is 60% of all seats should be filled. It should be noted that classrooms with 50 to 99 stations are the most heavily scheduled (32.6 hours per week).

Besides being used for regularly scheduled classes, general use classrooms are also reserved for non-course related activities such as departmental or student meetings, tutorials, etc. These activities contribute an additional 2.0 average hours of use per week. The table on the following page details special room reservations by building.

The following table reinforces the finding that our classrooms may not be optimally sized to the sizes of class sections they must accommodate.

Comparison of Classroom Size and Class Section Size

Minneapolis Campus

Fall Quarter 1980

Class Size Room Size	# of Rooms	% of Total Rooms	# of Class Sections	% of Total Class Sections
1 - 99	193	75%	2,396	89%
100+	62	25%	291	11%
	<hr/>	<hr/>	<hr/>	<hr/>
Total	255	100%	2,687	100%

Based on the above table, 75% of our general use classrooms serve 89% of the total class sections. Conversely, class sections of 100 students or more constitute only 11% of total sections but have 62 rooms or 25% of total rooms available for use.

Essential to efficient classroom scheduling is the degree to which classes can be scheduled throughout the day. The table on the following page details the percentage of classrooms in use by time of day. These utilization rates reflect the average Monday through Friday day time usage. High levels of use extend through 3:00 in the afternoon with a minimal drop over the lunch hour.

Departmental Classrooms

Classrooms which are assigned to departments do not achieve as high utilization rates as centrally scheduled classrooms. Departmental classrooms are used on the average of 8.2 hours per week for regularly scheduled instruction and 13.7 hours per week for irregularly scheduled activities such as meetings, seminars and tutorial sessions. In many cases departmental classrooms lack the environmental quality in terms of acoustics, furnishings and lighting resulting in lower utilization. Wherever programmatically feasible departmental classrooms should be physically upgraded and, if required, returned to the centrally scheduled pool of rooms.

Instructional Class Laboratories

Instructional class laboratories are used a daytime average of 26.6 hours per week. Of this total, 11.5 hours are regularly scheduled instruction and 15.1 hours are departmentally scheduled such as preparation time, individual or group experimentation, etc. For regularly scheduled instruction, approximately 66% of the lab stations are occupied when class is in session. The University scheduling standards for instructional labs are 20 hours of scheduling per week and 80% station utilization. Although the average weekly room use exceeds the standard, it would appear that many laboratories may be oversized relative to the class sections accommodated. The problem of improperly sized laboratories is difficult to resolve due to the relatively large amount of fixed and specialized equipment usually associated with this type of room.

The following table details instructional class laboratory utilization by major academic unit.

Average Weekly Room Utilization Instructional Laboratories Fall Quarter 1980

The graph on the following page examines class laboratory use by time of day in the same manner as classrooms were previously examined. Only regularly scheduled instruction is included.

Special Purpose Laboratories

Special purpose laboratories are used a daytime average of 20.8 hours per week. Only 3.1 hours per week are regularly scheduled instruction. Special purpose labs are not conducive to intensive scheduling due to their narrow focus. A planetarium plays an important function for specific portions of the academic quarter by serving a variety of course offerings. Use of a planetarium for other non-related activities is severely limited.

The following table details daytime use of special purpose labs by major academic unit.

Individual Study Laboratories

There are 149 rooms listed on the space inventory as individual study laboratories. Representing about 5% of instructional space these rooms are usually associated with music practice, language laboratory, audio-visual and tutorial type activities. As previously mentioned these rooms can be either scheduled (i.e. music practice rooms) or assigned (i.e. architecture student studios). The following table indicates the level of use of individual study laboratories which are scheduled by major academic units.

Offices

Office space represents approximately 25 percent of all Minneapolis Campus space and is the largest single category of University space. Office space is categorized and defined as follows:

Faculty Office - A room used by a professional person engaged primarily in teaching, research or public service. (Does not include chairperson, dean, or student offices.)

Graduate Assistant Office - A room used by students employed as administrative, project, research or teaching assistants.

Staff Office - A room used by administrative and/or professional staff.

Secretary/Clerical Office - A room providing primary work space for secretarial/clerical personnel including receptionists.

Office Service - A room serving other offices such as a duplicating room, file and records room, vault, private toilet, closet or supply room, waiting room, access area.

Office Conference Room - A room, usually part of an office complex, used primarily for faculty/staff meetings. May contain departmental collections and serve as a multi-purpose room.

The relative amount of space in each of the above categories is displayed on the following page.

Faculty Offices

There are 2,308 faculty offices on the Minneapolis Campus encompassing 353,870 assignable square feet of space. Faculty offices represent 20 percent of all office type space on campus. The following table indicates the average size of faculty offices by major academic unit.

The minimum University standard for faculty offices is 120 NASF compared to an existing campus-wide average of 153 NASF. Two primary reasons why existing offices exceed the minimum standard are: 1) many offices are located in old inefficient buildings and 2) in many cases offices are sized to include research or instructional activities such as lab equipment in Chemistry or musical instruments in the Fine Arts.

In some cases faculty members are forced to share their offices, either with graduate students, staff or faculty colleagues. The following table indicates the degree to which faculty offices are shared by major academic units.

Staff Offices

There are 2,679 staff offices on the Minneapolis Campus representing almost one-third of all office space. The following table indicates the average size of staff offices by major unit.

Similar to faculty offices, staff offices also exceed the minimum University office standard of 120 NASF. A larger percentage of staff offices are shared than faculty offices as shown in the following table.

Secretarial/Clerical Offices

Offices in this category represent 1,103 rooms in 354,691 assignable square feet of space. The average office size of secretarial/clerical offices is 323 NASF which is by far the largest of any office type. Secretary/clerical offices serve a number of functions. Often these offices must accommodate multiple work stations, reception areas, office equipment and files. The average secretary/clerical office size and percentage of shared offices by major unit is shown in the following table.

Graduate Assistant Offices

Similar to secretary/clerical offices, graduate assistant offices are usually large because of multiple occupancy. This type of space constitutes approximately 10 percent of all office space with 179,942 assignable square feet in 895 rooms. The following two tables indicate allocation and use of graduate assistant offices by major unit in the same manner as secretary/clerical offices were treated.

Office Service/Office Conference Rooms

This type of office service space is allocated to units based on the number of office occupants to be served and the nature of activities to be accommodated. The following table indicates the percentage of Office Service/Conference rooms to all office space by major unit.

University space allocation guidelines allow 20% of office requirements to be generated as office service/conference space. The Minneapolis Campus average is 18%. The ratio of office service/conference space to primary offices must be adjusted for individual units to respond to varying service requirements. Presented in the following table is a comparison by major unit of office service/conference space per faculty/staff member.

Understandably the relatively greater need for office service type space for administrative units is reflected in the table above.

Hospital Offices

The preceding analyses did not include offices assigned to the University Hospitals. In many cases a Hospital office is used around the clock by several staff members in delivering health care services. This results in a large number of staff utilizing offices albeit not at the same time. For this reason use of Hospital office space cannot be examined in the same way as other University offices.

There are 642 office spaces assigned to Hospital units within 102,777 assignable square feet. Hospital office space represents 5.8% of all Minneapolis Campus office space and is allocated as follows:

Unoccupied Offices

At any given time a number of offices will not be assigned for a variety of reasons. Over 100 office personnel either enter or leave University employment each month resulting in a constant pool of offices either recently vacated or awaiting imminent assignment. In other cases departmental staff levels may have declined resulting in a more permanent type of vacancy. In still other cases, vacant offices result from department relocations to new or remodeled facilities and reoccupancy of vacated space has not been fully planned or implemented.

Based on the survey, 84 offices in 33 buildings totaling 11,190 assignable square feet of space were identified as currently vacant, most for the reasons cited above. A continuing problem to University space management is how best to minimize the amount of temporarily unproductive space given the fact that seldom is there sufficient vacant space in one location to resolve any significant space problem. Identifying interim uses of temporarily vacant offices and redirecting vacant space to other uses or departments with expanding space needs constitutes a major portion of day-to-day space management activities.

The following tables list unoccupied offices based on survey information reported as of the end of Fall Quarter 1980. It should be noted that the composition of rooms on this list changes almost on a daily basis.

Costing Office Space

As a resource of the University, space is similar to time and money in both contributing to and limiting the quality of University programs. Both the initial cost of building construction and renovation and the re-occurring cost of operating and maintaining the facilities must be considered in determining the economic value of space to the University. The following table lists original and replacement costs for office space by major unit.

Original and Replacement Costs of Office Space Minneapolis Campus

The actual and potential space costs to the University become more meaningful when placed in the context of an average faculty office of 153 assignable square feet.

- 1) The average existing faculty office has cost the University $6,478 to construct.
- 2) The current price tag to build an average faculty office is $18,207.
- 3) The annual reoccurring cost to heat, light and maintain a faculty office is $543.
